

Virtual CIO

Could your business benefit from a Virtual CIO?

An experienced InfoTech Services consultant can advise you in a high-level strategic capacity as your Virtual CIO (Chief Information Officer) on call.

Careful IT planning at a strategic level is critical today more than ever before. This is because unwise tech decisions can disadvantage your business and lead to expensive issues later on.

How a Virtual CIO goes beyond IT support

A CIO is a trusted advisor who can help you factor your IT function into your current budget and future plans, advising on potential upgrades and maintenance. When you lack the capacity for in-house IT management, consulting with an expert as needed can help safeguard your IT future – identifying opportunities and risks.

Why a virtual CIO is good for business

A Virtual CIO makes it possible for businesses of all sizes to access the unlimited IT capabilities of a large organisation – at a fraction of the cost. All it takes is strategy and planning. Having a virtual CIO on call when you need them can help you maintain a competitive IT advantage. As your dedicated advisor, the CIO will help you make informed decisions in an IT context for overall business success.

Virtual CIO services

InfoTech Solutions' Virtual CIO advisory service provides you with the trusted advice and sound planning you need to stay one step ahead in today's commercial environment.

- Examine internet or telephone contracts to identify unused services and potential cost savings
- Current systems audit
- Annual strategic review of IT budgets
- Comparative analysis
- Overarching strategy development (either for third-party implementation or implementation by InfoTech Solutions)
- Deciding whether upgrades are necessary and feasible (for instance, phone system upgrades)

Access managerial expertise when you need it

Your dedicated InfoTech CIO gets to know your business, invests in your success and makes the hard decisions about how your IT budget is best invested.

How it works

To maximise your IT capabilities, our Virtual CIO services are tailored to your company and requirements. We can attend or be conferenced into meetings to advise on key IT issues, or consult with you privately.

Strategy	Proactive advice on future IT requirements in line with broader business goals
Compliance	Making sure that all bases are covered in terms of regulations
Privacy	Safeguarding your IP and sensitive customer information
Service Optimisation	Helping design the optimum user experience for your customers
Infrastructure	Advising on hardware, software and all devices and programs
Performance	Minimising downtime and identifying potential risks
Flexibility	Change is inevitable, which means built-in IT flexibility is crucial.

Longevity in the industry means we can handle every IT project or problem.